3. About Me Page

Content:

I am a dedicated student and leader driven by a deep curiosity for history and a commitment to community service. My journey has been defined by the pursuit of excellence, whether I am leading a service project as an Eagle Scout or analyzing the strategic shifts of past civilizations to better understand our modern world.

Growing up with a fishing rod in one hand and a history book in the other, I learned early on the value of patience and perspective. Serving as a Head Acolyte taught me the importance of reliability and precision in a communal setting, while my years on the varsity golf team sharpened my mental fortitude.

My passions are split between outdoor activities (fishing, golf, and alpine skiing) and historical preservation. My academic goal is to master research methodologies and critical analysis. My career goal is to work in a field that protects cultural heritage or uses historical data to inform modern policy and strategy.

Guiding Motto: "Leave it better than you found it."

Visuals: I will input a professional headshot and relevant personal photos.

Boy Scouts of America – Eagle Scout

Being an Eagle Scout taught me real-world leadership. I successfully planned and executed a major conservation project that involved damming up a pool, fundraising, and stocking over 200 brook trout. I also mentored a troop of 30+ scouts in outdoor skills and leadership development.

Varsity Golf Team – Team Captain

Serving as Team Captain allowed me to lead my teammates. I represented the school in regional tournaments and mentored underclassmen on technique, course strategy, and sportsmanship.

Alpine Skiing

5x States Qualifying Alpine Skier. Compete at a high level, demonstrating discipline, focus, and resilience in competitive racing.

Church Ministry – Head Acolyte

As Head Acolyte, I was responsible for leading and managing a team of 10 acolytes. I handled scheduling, training, and ensured all weekly services ran smoothly and with dignity.

Debate Team

Competed in multiple debate tournaments and won the Novice ADL Award.

Rocketry Club

Active member participating in engineering design, building, and launch projects.
